

Clinical Trials for Non-Experts

Key to the approval of all medicines and many high-risk medical devices are clinical trials.

The principles of all clinical trials are the same. So, whether you work in pharmaceuticals or medical devices there is a need for consistent, high quality, reliable results, achieved in a timely and cost-effective manner (even if the individual routes to achieving those results are different).

Clinical Trials for Non-Experts is a UK-based, one-day, interactive training course built on 18 years of experience in clinical research, that helps you understand

- What a clinical trial is
- How we design and run successful clinical trials
- How we can be sure that our results are consistent, true and meaningful
- What we can do if things don't go to plan

It is specifically designed for new entrants to the clinical research arena and anyone for whom knowledge of clinical trials will enhance their role, whether that role is in sales, management, supply chain or as an investor, especially those with no scientific background.

We will help you consolidate learning through group activities and practical exercises, all in a non-threatening atmosphere.

So if you have no knowledge of clinical trials, but want to learn more we will help you understand the how, why, when, where and who of running successful studies ... and when we've finished you will have access to a wide-range of helpful documents, regulations and requirements as PDF downloads.

Our training can be tailored to your specific requirements and delivered on your premises. We are very happy to work in partnership with other service providers and event organisers.

"Stuart is a rare individual. His ability to create sense from chaos, to distil clarity of thinking from murky waters and to impart technical knowledge in a way that makes it all seem simple, is a unique gift. His dry humour and ability to view things from a different angle, was of huge value and support to me in my role. Always challenging and thorough in his dissection, Stuart was great to work with and made meetings interesting! Put simply, he is a man many could learn from, pragmatic, human, reflective and passionate about the positive impact of what he does."
